God of power and mercy, you destroy war and put down earthly pride. Banish violence from our midst and wipe away our tears, that we may all deserve to be called your sons and daughters. Keep in your mercy those men and women who have died in the cause of freedom and bring them safely into your kingdom of justice and peace.

What’s Pastor Thinking?

Have you ever noticed how hard it is to say goodbye? Some of us have an awful time bringing closure to our visits. Listen to the story of Father Jones.

Father Jones was a young priest who went to call on some parishioners one afternoon. He chatted with them for a while, drank two cups of coffee, then braced himself for his good-bye: "Well, I think I better be going now." But the lady of the house said: "Oh no! Father Jones, can't you really stay a little longer?" Never one to lie, he said: "O well, I guess I could stay a little longer." So he stayed. He drank eleven cups of coffee. By now night was falling. He rose again. "Well, now," he said shyly, "I think I really ... Can't you stay longer?" the lady said politely, "Why can't you join us for supper?" Never one to lie, he said: "Oh well, I could stay..." Good, my husband will be delighted.

So they had supper. After supper he started to excuse himself again, but the lady of the house showed him photographs. By 8:30 he had examined seventy-one photos. He stood to leave. "I must go now," he pleaded. "It's only half past eight, Do you have anything to do?" Never one to lie, he admitted: "nothing." So he stayed the rest of the evening drinking coffee and looking at photographs. It got too late to drive home so they invited him to sleep on the couch. In the days that followed the priest lived his entire time in the drawing room drinking coffee and staring at photographs, but the lack of air and exercise began to take its toll on his health.

Eventually they carried him upstairs in a raging delirium of fever. At times he would start up from his bed and shriek: "Well, I think I..." and then would fall back on his pillow with a horrible gasp. At other times he would leap up and cry: "Another cup of coffee and more photographs!"

After a month of agony he died. They say that when the last moment came, he sat up in bed with a beautiful smile of confidence on his face and said: "Well, the angels are calling me; I'm afraid I certainly have to go now. Good bye!"

Father Jones reminds us how hard saying goodbye really is. The Beatles sang, “You say good bye, I say hello.” So it is that we find the disciples hearing a good-bye from the Leader who it seemed only months before had said hello. Jesus has finished his job and now returns to Heaven. His good-bye to his disciples meant that he believed in them. He believed that they were ready for the next phase of spiritual growth. Far from saying goodbye, God was really saying hello in a big way. At Pentecost He would fill them with His very Spirit. Now God will no longer be contained to a single person in single location on planet earth. By coming into our very lives God now wants to work through us, giving us the power to live out our faith, to share the Good News, and to grow in our relationships. God has granted us the Spirit and that means that we are filled with the power to follow in His footsteps, to be in joyful mission to a hurting world.

In the midst of our own crises and periods of transition, let us embrace and celebrate God's big hello, the giving of God's Comforter and Encourager. For we are the people of God, empowered by the Spirit of Jesus.

The Society of St. Vincent De Paul
Today as we celebrate the Feast of the Ascension we are reminded that Christ’s saving work on earth continues through his disciples...and now through us. It is plain from Scripture that the Ascension of Jesus was a literal bodily return to heaven. It signaled the end of His earthly ministry. God the Father had lovingly sent His Son into the world and now the Son was returning to the Father. The period of Human limitation was at an end. It marked the return of his heavenly glory and allowed Him to prepare for us. We are disciples of Jesus by letting the Spirit work through us as we live everyday life. We see the poor all around us and we long to respond to their needs. Please continue to support the St. Vincent de Paul Society so that we may continue to help those in need.

Be thankful!

Expect the Spirit to do great things!

All powerful God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ by water and the Holy Spirit you freed your sons and daughters from sin.

Send the Holy Spirit upon them to be their helper and guide.

Give them the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of right judgment and courage, the spirit of knowledge and reverence.

Fill them with the spirit of wonder and awe in your presence.

We ask this through Christ Our Lord.

Amen

It has been the history and tradition of St. Barnabas Vacation Bible School to take camp pictures of all the groups at VBS to send home as a memento. Sometimes we also take random pictures of the campers enjoying the different activities at VBS which we put on a display board for the families to see when they attend the VBS concert and we might also display with prior years pictures at future VBS sessions. Please note we will not list or label the camper's names just the group name – example the Sand Castles.
