The Patron Saint of Parish Priests

A boy who became a beloved saint of the Church once told his mother: “I wish to win many souls for Jesus Christ.” Years later, this boy became a parish priest. His name is Saint Jean Marie Vianney. He is famously known as the Cure of Ars. Today, August 4th is his feast day which marks the 160th anniversary of his passing to eternal life.

He has been declared by Pope Benedict XVI as the patron saint of parish priests and is one of my favorite saints. His definitive biography The Cure of Ars by Abbe Francois Trochu has had a lasting impact on me. I recommend it especially to young men discerning priesthood.

The life of Jean Vianney has helped me to strive to be a holy and zealous priest. Although we cannot be exactly another St. Jean Vianney, or John Paul II, or St. Therese of Liseux, we can surely imitate their virtues.

Jean Vianney is one of those saints that speak of the signs of the times today. He grew up during the French Revolution in which the Catholic Church was greatly persecuted. It was terribly difficult being a devout Catholic then as it is now. At one point, priests that were loyal to the Pope were considered enemies of the state. Anyone who harbored them was also considered enemies of the state and would be guillotined.

He was ordained a priest several years after the revolution was over. However, secularism was on the rise, alongside with alcoholism and not giving proper worship to God on the Lord’s Day. It was in this environment in France that a humble parish priest came to Ars.

He served his parish with great zeal, and not only his own parishioners but also those who came from afar. He would hear confessions over twelve hours a day! Hundreds of people would come to see him in a single day, and many of them from great distances.

The Cure of Ars had a tremendous devotion to the Eucharist. He said “When we receive Holy Communion, we experience something extraordinary – a joy, fragrance, a well-being that thrills the whole body and causes it to exult.” On the Feast of Corpus Christ he made it a great day of celebration and worship to God. It was one of the few days of the year in which Jean Vianney would not take up any penances. He carried the monstrance containing the Blessed Sacrament during the Eucharistic procession with great reverence and endurance. One year after the procession was over he was asked: “Father you must be tired?” He answered “Oh, why should I be tired? He whom I carried likewise carried me.”

Jean Vianney won many souls to Jesus Christ. Yet he was encouraged by good priests and loving parents. His own mother encouraged him deeply in his vocation. Vianney said “After God, I owe it to my mother, she was so good! Virtue passes readily from the heart of a mother into that of her children.”

Part of our Christian duty is to encourage young men to the priesthood. We are all working together for the good of the Church and for the salvation of souls. If you know a young man who may be called to the priesthood encourage him, and tell him to see me or Father Sean Magaldi. We are all in this together doing our part. Praying for vocations especially for vocations in our parish and our diocese is something that is necessary for the good of the Church.

This month I will be going on my retreat and for the first time I will go to Ars! It will be a tremendous blessing to spend my retreat at the Shrine of Saint Jean Vianney. I will pray for all of you and for an increase of vocations to the priesthood. As you know in these times we are in need of priests. Lord, send us priests. Lord, send us holy priests.

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul
In the Gospel, Jesus tells the parable about the rich man who selfishly stored all his grain and goods only to die and not enjoy his abundance anyway. We work hard for what we think is important to us, but we may end up with nothing because we have missed the whole point: life. We tend to think we can provide or our own future, but the gospel reminds us that the future is God’s. God is touching our lives at every moment of the day, and we are touching Him. He is particularly close to us in the Church, in the Sacraments and in the poor. If we wish to be sensitive to the presence of God in our lives, we have to recall His presence frequently. We have to give ourselves moments of stillness and reflection in the midst of our work and our lives, so that we can become more conscious that it is in God that we live and move and have our being at all times. When you support the St. Vincent de Paul Society you are realizing that in giving you indeed receive. Please keep the poor and needy in your prayers. Thank you.

Focus on Religious Freedom
Increasing Global Hostility and Restrictions on Religion: Part 1 - A recent Pew Research report said 52 governments, including Russia and China, impose high levels of restrictions on religion, up from 40 governments in 2007. This includes violence, harassment, and pressure to convert. The U.S. Department hosted a 3-day meeting, attended by hundreds of government officials and religious leaders from over 100 countries from all regions of the world, in response to this crisis. They referenced the most recent atrocities that are ongoing and that 83% of the world continues to live in places where religious freedom is under threat or altogether absent. The most persecuted group by numbers are 250 million Christians worldwide. Anglican Bishop Philip Mounstephen, acknowledging this shocking figure, said, “I don’t for one minute want to ignore the way that members of other faith groups are persecuted. But...the Christian faith today is the one global faith, and this is a global phenomenon that we’re facing.” He blamed political correctness, saying, “I think there’s a failure to recognize that the Christian faith is predominantly a global faith...and that we’ve turned a blind eye when we really shouldn’t have, and we’ve failed to live up to our moral responsibilities in this whole area.” “Almost every faith that’s a majority somewhere is a minority somewhere else and often gets persecuted,” said Sam Brownback, U.S. Ambassador for International Religious Freedom. “This (meeting) is not an exercise in trying to achieve a universal theology. We want everyone to come together around the concept that religious freedom at all times is everyone’s right.” The speakers described the suffering of faith communities worldwide, while they also embraced the universal, welcoming solidarity and support from other faith communities and countries. “The right to religious freedom is rooted in the very dignity of the human person, whose transcendent nature must not be ignored or overlooked.” - Pope Benedict XVI

The Men of the Way of Light
Perhaps no other passage in Scripture confronts the culture of the world more than this week’s Gospel Reading; “a man’s life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions.” The world’s culture, impacted by advertising and mass media, has sold the majority of us a false bill of goods. Whether it is the poor and disenfranchised seeking to make a dollar, legally or illegally, or the multi-billionaire endeavoring to make another billion, ethically or unethically, the majority of people believe that, “If I had the money to buy what I want, I would be happy.” Sadly, to some degree, most of us have succumbed to this deception. It does not take an unusually astute observer of life to note that this philosophy is a lie. Some of the wealthiest of our society demonstrate, by their dysfunctional lifestyles, that possessions do not satisfy and wealth does not secure happiness. This week’s first reading points out the futility of living for things. After all the work, pain, anxiety and unbridled ambition to accumulate has ended, everything is divided among heirs, many of whom would have given it all up for a better relationship and more time with the person who left it! Our life does not consist of what we possess, but in what (or who) possesses us. The believer in Christ who possesses a deep and sincere love for Jesus and a passion to serve Him, stands out in sharp contrast to this culture of self and greed. Instead, they give time and effort to serving God and people, while promoting a life of peace, purpose and joy through knowing and serving Christ. Having set their hearts on the things of Christ, they “accumulate” spiritual reward: “Eye has not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God has prepared for those who love...
Him.” (1 Cor 2:9) Our own St. Barnabas wrote that there are two paths we can follow: The Way of Light, which is the path that Jesus showed us that leads to riches in heaven, or the way of darkness, which is the secular path that leads only to sin and death. At a crossroads in your life? Wondering which way is best? Need to bounce some questions off some men of faith? Please join our faith discussion group at our next meeting on Saturday, August 10th, immediately following the 8:00 AM Mass. We meet in the Nazareth Room of the Holy Family Chapel. Bagels and coffee served. Our meetings run until 10:30 AM. For more information, visit our FaceBook page.
